

REWARDING CAREERS

JAMES HARTWELL

RELATIONSHIP MANAGER, BRANCH NETWORK

Although I had an extensive career within recruitment, it was a massive change moving from a branch environment to an onsite operation. Working onsite at one of Gi Group UK's largest clients was certainly a daunting task at the beginning and being onsite meant that there was certainly nowhere to hide! However, with the support of the Gi Group management team together with the training received, the transition was as smooth as it could possibly be.

I love my job and that each day's "To Do" list never looks the same. The constant changes and challenges to the role are always a massive motivator and as we grow and maintain our relationships with our client, I often finish the day knowing that my team and I can leave satisfied that we have had another good day at work. I am now responsible for three of the client sites too.
